INTERVIEWS

the metromover station proposal by melbourne, australia's office 24/7 has been selected as the winner of the downtown architectural competition. the firm's entry is based on the concept of a diaphragm, creating an iconic new station for miami's metromover rail system. the building's façade is comprised of a large scale interactive display that will display images, video and art installations linking the interior to the plaza outside. the design aims to also connect the station to the plaza outside through a series of ramps. inside, travelers can do more than just wait for their train, taking in interesting videos or socializing in the expansive atrium that is more like an auditorium than a platform.
