

MIAMI SEAPLANE TERMINAL

DawnTown is an international ideas competition held to promote architectural design in the city of Miami. As specified in the competition brief, the terminal should be expressive of the spirit and civic pride of Miami as well as synthesizing notions of infrastructure and transportation resulting in a unique setting. The terminal is to be sited on Watson Island, a prominent site within the city, located across Biscayne Bay from downtown Miami. Designs for the new terminal should seek to include sustainable features and techniques, and should assume no budget, zoning, or arbitrary design restrictions. Designs should also be aware of the potential for further development of Watson Island via the Island Gardens Project.
